

Casagram data privacy policy

Status October 2017

1. General

Data protection is taken seriously by Casagram (hereinafter "the developer"). By this "Privacy Policy" the developer wants to inform you about the required data, its purpose, how we intend to use it and how you are able to correct or amend your information. The protection of your privacy is of utmost importance to us. This is the reason why compliance with the strict provisions of the law is a matter of course for us. It is our firm's belief that data protection starts with transparency. Thus, our concern is to let you know which kind of your data is stored, how we use your data und also how you can limit or even prevent such storage of your data. The developer will only use your information and data provided by you in consistency with this Privacy Policy.

2. Scope of application

The developer expressly states that the Privacy Policy shall apply to all registered users of the websites listed in section 2.

The following websites are currently operated by the developer:

Casagram.net

3. What is personal data?

Personal data includes information on personal and factual circumstances concerning an identified or identifiable person. This includes information such as your (real) name, your address or any other mail address and as well as your telephone number. Also your e-mail address is included here from if it is connected so strongly to your name that you are identifiable. Information due to which your identity cannot be determined does not qualify as personal data. As an example, such information is all information without any connection to your name, e.g. the declaration of your sex or your age or your education.

4. When and for which purpose will your data be stored and collected?

Of our registered users we store an e-mail address and a ETH wallet ID for identification. We require that data to distinguish our users and to contact them. The data for identification purposes will remain stored as long as the ICO is online and its need for eventual bonus delivery.

5. What about IP-address, etc.?

With your access on Casagram.net, some possible identification data (IP-address) and other information (date, time, viewed page) is stored on our server for the purpose of data security. An evaluation of the data does not take place.

6. Use and disclosure of personal data

The developer only uses your personal information within the company and only transfers it to such companies, which are supposed to help with the fulfilment of our contract with you or otherwise engaged in the service provision. Apart from that, your personal data will not be transferred, unless you have expressly agreed to any transfer or we are obliged to disclose any data, e.g. due to an official or judicial command. Please be aware that provided information of other users, e.g. on support channels are retrievable for other users of the service. Therefore you should review your contributions carefully before making them public to ensure that you have not included any information that is not intended for the public. You should take into account that contributions or data that you make publicly accessible will be recorded in search engines and be accessible globally, even without a specific call to our offer. The deletion or correction of such data can often not be enforced regarding foreign operators. There is no right of deletion of these data towards the developer. If you have registered on Casagram.net, the developer uses your data provided during the registration process for the purpose of delivering the Casagram-newsletter. Personal data will not be passed on to third parties. Therefrom excepted are only partner companies which are responsible for the technical processing for the newsletter dispatch. In these cases, the scope of the transmitted data shall be restricted to the necessary minimum.

7. Cookies

Cookies are small text files which can be stored on the hard drives of web site users. They enable personalized adjustments to be made to the website. Furthermore, Cookies are used by the developer to analyze the use of the websites in anonymized or pseudonymised form, as well as the online advertisement, to store general preferences of the user and to present a user special offers and services which meet his specific interest and can be found on the websites. Furthermore, anonymized user statistics will be drafted and the data will be used for market research purposes. Our advertising customers will on no account receive data which allow to identify you. Most browsers are activated in a form that they accept Cookies automatically. You may deactivate Cookies or change the settings of your browser so that it informs you as soon as cookies are sent. However, in this event, a smooth functioning of our Casagram.net Website is no longer possible.

11. Information, Revocation Right, Questions

You may request at any time and without charge information concerning the data stored in relation to your person or to a pseudonym assigned to your person. We reserve the right to provide this information electronically. Moreover, you are at any time entitled to revoke the further use of personal data in the future. In case of an information request or a revocation you need to file sufficient information to your individualization (at least e-mail address and ETH wallet ID) and valid evidence that this information refers to you. In these cases or if you have other questions to our data security please contact:

info@casagram.net

12. Right of modification

We reserve the right to amend the provisions of the Privacy Policy without giving any reasons at any time, whereby any such amendments shall be published on Casagram.net (at most) by sending the text of the amendment to the e-mail address provided by the user in each case at least 30 days before any such amendments entering into force. Apart from formal requirements amendments of the Privacy Policy requires your consent. Any amendments of the Privacy Policy enter into force within 30 days after the announcement. In case you do not accept the amended of the Privacy Policy, you may not further use the services of the developer.
